Acknowledgements

The preparation of this document would have been impossible without the help of many collectors who have contributed their knowledge, insights and criticisms in order to improve the quality of the product. I am particularly indebted to Ted Rolston whose initial inquiry reawakened my interest in Coon cards, and who then helped to frame the document and provided much input on the content. All those who have contributed are listed below and where possible the lists include the initials of the individual who first highlighted the card.

Postcards of Allen D. Coon

Allen Daniel Coon

The early life of Allen Daniel Coon is the stuff of legend but is largely hearsay with little concrete evidence to support it. He is said to have been born in Buffalo in the northern part of New York State in the USA on October 15, 1867 and to have studied Law at New York University, remaining in the USA until around the turn of the Century. The first solid information comes from a flier produced by Coon in the early 1920's in which he states that his Irish photographic business was established in 1902 (see illustration in Picture Postcard Monthly August 1989, p32) and to date, the earliest reference to his photography comes from the UK National Archives where copyright records record photographs in Drogheda dated August 2, 1904 and December 23, 1905 with his address given at the latter date as 72, Park Street, Dundalk. He later married Clara Nelson McNamara of Belfast (though no marriage record has yet been found, census information suggests the marriage took place in 1907 or early 1908) and their first child Gladys Comley Coon was born on January 3, 1909 in Londonderry with the family's address being given as South Wall, Londonderry. In all they had seven children, moving from Londonderry to Letterkenny, Co. Donegal around 1912/3, and then to Moira, Co. Armagh in 1922/3. His Irish career encompassed the role of travelling showman, cinema owner and operator and postcard photographer and more information on his activities can be found in the PPM article mentioned above and in W.A. Maguire's book "A Century in Focus" pp 125-8. He died in Sligo on February 13, 1938 and is buried in Moira Unitarian Churchyard.

Postcard Background

It appears that Coon's postcard career began while he was living in the city of Londonderry from late in the first decade of the 20th Century until about the end of 1912. From there he moved to Letterkenny in Co. Donegal in 1912 or early 1913, and then about 1922/3 he moved to Moira in Co. Armagh and remained there until his death in 1938. He travelled extensively throughout Ulster with his mobile cinema productions and took the opportunity of photographing the towns, villages and countryside as he went. With these photographs he approached local shopkeepers with an offer of cards on which their name would be included as publisher, with Foy (PPM August 1989, p33) quoting a cost of £4.11s.11d (£4.60) for a minimum order of 2000 cards. This approach seems to have been very successful given the large number of different shopkeepers and businesses who are shown as publishers on the cards, but it was not without problems and there are reports of legal disputes between Coon and shopkeepers which remain to be fully researched.

Broadly speaking Coon's postcard production can be divided into two time frames, the unnumbered cards being produced until 1924, with the numbered series beginning in 1924 and continuing until his death. Accordingly this catalogue is divided into two sections, with the first addressing the unnumbered cards. Establishing a sequence for these cards is difficult, but since throughout all the years of having his photographs printed as postcards, he included in the printing his location at the time and this provides the first means of classification of his work (although not infallible as reprints of earlier work could be assigned a later location). The locations, approximate dates of use, and the abbreviations used in the listing are shown below:

Belfast & Londonderry	Up to 1910	BLO
Londonderry	1910 to 1913	LON
Londonderry & Letterkenny	1912-1913	LLE
Letterkenny	1913 to 1922	LET
Letterkenny & Moira	1922 -1924	LMO
Moira	1923 1938	MOI

For the unnumbered cards, in addition to the location, there are three other aspects which provide assistance in the determining of chronology, and where they are included in this listing. First there is the printing of the postcards, which was assigned by Coon to different printers over time, presumably on the basis of cost, quality and speed of production. Even with a given printer and printing style, there are changes from batch to batch which help to provide clues to the timing of production. Second, some of the cards passed through the postal system and the postmarks provide a latest printing date for that particular card. Third, most cards were pre-ordered by a specific business in the location shown on the card and these businesses are shown on most cards as the publishers, providing them with a cheap form of advertising. Since most of these businesses had a relatively long life, they are usually of little use in dating the cards but in some cases can be helpful.

For the numbered cards, it is widely believed that the first two numbers provide the year of production and the remaining numbers the position in the annual sequence (eg 25126 would be the 126th card from the year 1925) then dating is, in principle, easy. However there are some problems with this which will be addressed later.

Approach for the Unnumbered Cards

The approach taken to cataloguing the unnumbered cards of Coon has been to look at each of the above locations in turn and start to build up listings of cards in each, using the aspects outlined above to provide sub-categories and hopefully, a chronology of production. This is neither an easy nor an exact task and, over time, it is expected that changes of the numbering system will be required in order accommodate new information.

Postcards of Allen D. Coon

Each of the listings will comprise four elements:

- 1) An assigned reference number for the group (eg BLO1 representing the first printing of Belfast & Londonderry cards).
- 2) Copies of both front and back of a representative card from this group, together with a description of the unique features of the group.
- 3) A listing of all the cards known from this group, ordered alphabetically by publisher, with the cards of each publisher also in alphabetical order. The listing includes for each card, the title, earliest date of use, and the initials of the collector who first identified the card.
- 4) A summary giving the number of cards known for the group and the date of earliest usage.

It is possible that other features can be added later but for now it is desirable that the level of complexity be kept to a minimum.

Approach for the Numbered Cards

These will be listed in order of the number on the card, providing details on the title, the business mentioned on the card, the back type, and earliest date known.

There is also a column to record other relevant information, for example whether the card is a reprint, or unusually sized.

Selected illustrations are used in this section to provide examples of the cards.

Next Steps

In order to make these lists worthwhile, it will be helpful for collectors of these cards to add to the information available, and this can be achieved by sending new information to the following address – bhamilton@btinternet.com. All contributions will be acknowledged both when the information is received and also in a list of contributors within the lists. Thanks in advance for your help.

Type BLO1

The front of these cards is characterised by the attribution in small red print as follows: "Photo by Coon & Co., Belfast and Londonderry". The title of the card is in larger print as shown below:

The rear of the card has a distinctive design, again printed in red with the details of the publisher on the left edge. This back has been assigned Back Type 1 and is known only on BLO1 and BLO3.

Postcards of Allen D. Coon

The presence of Belfast in the attribution line of this card suggests that Coon had some premises in the city but to date no details are available. It is of note that the shop of the publisher of the illustrated card is shown on the right of the street, clearly a selling point by Coon.

Type BLO2

The front is quite different from BLO1 with the print in white capitals, though the wording of the attribution is the same "PHOTO BY COON & CO. BELFAST & LONDONDERRY". It is possible that the same printer was used as the wording on the reverse is identical.

The dividing line on the back is quite different from BLO1 and the left hand inscription is unusual – "Published by Coon, Photographer & Cinematograph, Londonderry". This back has been assigned as Type 2, also known on LON6.
